Fatima Bashar

Acrylic

This piece is inspired by Pablo Picasso (Cubism). The art piece focuses on warm colors, and breaking down the face into shapes while maintaining some realism. Though the expression is sorrowful, the warm colors bring out happiness; showing how happiness and sadness are intertwined.

Fatima Bashar

Acrylic on Peg Board

This art piece is based on how I feel about art as an artist, and how art has grown into me. Art was not something I was born into, as the color pencils come towards me it represents how much the world of art has shown/ given me. It has brought a light (pearls) into me like no other.

Jadon Kimbrough

Pen

This is a scribble pen portrait of late great rappers Juice Wrlld and XXXTentacion. Juice Wrlld is one of my favorite rappers and I started this in November so at first it was supposed to be Juice Wrlld and Ski Mask, but then on December 8 in the morning I went on my phone and seen that Juice had passed and I was devastated and heartbroken that one of my favorite rappers had passed so just seeing my drawing I wanted to this be a really good portrait so the that's why I put fellow other late rapper XXXTentacion in.

Jadon Kimbrough

Charcoal

This is a charcoal portrait of NFL athlete Odell Beckham Jr. The title of the piece is OBJ. Centennial's art program is great, from personal experience when I began art as a freshman I used to be like wow I will never be able to do that, but now as a senior graduating I am able to draw really good. The art teachers are great and get the best out of you.

Ira Graham

Digital Photography

The two portraits, “Malachi” and “Quintasa” are named after the people in the photos. Malachi and Quintasa are photos that were taken during the beginning of my photographic exploration, which are simply practices in composition, color and value. In particular, Malachi was made during my first photoshoot ever, in the summer of 2018, where I used my compositional skills from my experience in painting and drawing, and applied them to photography.

“Springs Beginning”, “Hoop Dreams” and “Night Rider” are some of my most current work, taken in the past few months. Recently I have been focused on incorporating implied narrative and emotion into my work. These three photos were taken with intentions to evoke emotions and memories of the past. I feel that these images, for an American adult, are largely relatable and nostalgic, and represent a small part of a bigger picture which can be interpreted in many ways.
