

THURSDAY TEST PREP-NOVEMBER

2018 AIR REPORT

Each month, September-March, secondary ELA teachers will have access to lessons that adhere to the READ Method and address some part of the growth areas for reading/writing noted in the data from the CCS 2018 AIR Data Report with Recommended Actions. Instituting these lessons as part of Thursday class time, every Thursday, will establish a routine of standardized test preparation and will increase student interactions with weaknesses shown in the data. These lessons will be included in the weekly newsletter, emailed to all ELA secondary teachers, and will be available on the ELA 6-12 Webpage. Because these are still being produced, they will be released weekly or monthly as the year progresses.

NOVEMBER'S FOCUS: EVIDENCE AND ELABORATION

Students must support their ideas with evidence on the AIR assessments. Students are asked to write argument and informative/explanatory essays. Both of these require students to “use evidence from the passages.” Students are also asked to find supporting evidence from the passages to answer reading questions. This month’s lessons will focus on finding evidence to answer reading questions and support points made in body paragraphs. They will help students elaborate on the points they make and evidence they use to tie to the topic of a body paragraph and to tie body paragraphs to the thesis/claim made in the introduction. The lessons address the E (Evidence) in the READ Method.
