Colorful, Non Traditional Looking Musical Instruments:

Colorful musical instruments are strongly discouraged. Of course, these novelty instruments may look cool, but more often than not, the “color” is that instrument's greatest selling point -- not the quality or craftsmanship. A traditional looking musical instrument is preferable.

Online Shopping:

Although the internet is a viable alternative for purchasing an instrument...however, “online buyers beware” as it’s difficult to really know the condition, sound, and quality of an instrument before purchasing online.

If buying an instrument online make sure to make a purchase from a reputable online retailer. Be informed about the online store’s return policy and warranty information. Read customer reviews and find out what the online store’s rating is with The Better Business Bureau.
