

Behavioral Health Virtual & Telehealth Services – For Your Child

Nationwide Children’s Hospital’s School-Based Behavioral Health offers online behavioral health support for your child.

We know that this is an uncertain and difficult time for students and parents. Families may experience challenges while transitioning to a new learning environment. Students may feel impacted whether their school is virtual, using a hybrid model, or returning face to face with new expectations. Some of these challenges could include:

- Maintaining routines and schedules
- Focusing during online learning
- Outbursts and behavior challenges in response to new expectations
- Lack of motivation in online learning
- Feelings of isolation and loneliness
- Worrying or sadness related to returning to school either face to face or virtual

Our School-Based Behavioral Health provides support through virtual groups and telehealth services. These virtual groups and telehealth visits allow you and your child to remain at home and receive the care you need. Connect with your provider from your phone or a computer.
